COUNCIL'S PREFACE.

THIS Dictionary of the modern Irish language, with explanations in English, is the outcome of a project conceived a few years ago by the members of the Council of the Irish Texts Society. On the initiation of Mr. G. A. Greene, M.A., then Vice-Chairman of the Council, they decided to compile, with the assistance of Irish speakers and scholars throughout Ireland and Great Britain, and under the direction of competent Editors, a small Irish-English Pocket Dictionary for the use of students of the modern tongue. As a foundation for this work, about 12,000 words were collected from existing glossaries, from the spoken language and from modern writings, and sorted into slip form. The Editors who were asked to carry out the task of editing this material, Father O'Leary and Mr. David Comyn, and, at a later stage, Mr. John MacNeill, found themselves, through the pressure of other work, unable to fulfil their intention, and the help of Father Dinneen was eventually secured.

In carrying out his views as Editor, Father Dinneen found it necessary to make many alterations on the slips handed to him, involving labour which would not have been incurred had he been appointed in the first instance. Indeed, Father Dinneen has so amended and expanded the fragmentary materials submitted to him, that the present work may be regarded as practically his creation, and the Council gladly acknowledges its indebtedness to him for his severe and patriotic labours in bringing the work to a satisfactory conclusion.

The members of the Council wish to add their own sincere thanks to those of the Editor to all those gentlemen who have assisted the undertaking, either by reading proofs, or by the compilation of lists of local words, or by personal assistance rendered in different ways to the Editor. The names of those who have given financial aid will be found at the end of the volume. These marks of kindness and interest in the work have been of the greatest service, and have afforded much encouragement both to the Council and to the Editor.

Signed on behalf of the Council,

DOUGLAS HYDE, LL.D., President.

DANIEL MESCAL, Chairman.

ELEANOR HULL, Hon. Secretary.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE study of the Modern Irish Language, which has received such an impetus in recent years, has been greatly hampered by the want of a convenient lexicon. Nothing but the urgent necessity that existed for such a lexicon could have induced me to abandon more congenial studies and devote my energies to the development and completion of the work so laudably undertaken by the Council of the Irish Texts Society. As I proceeded with the revision of the material supplied me the work grew imperceptibly under my hands. In preparing the work, I went through the whole of Peter O'Connell's MS. Dictionary, and also, though more rapidly, through the MS. Dictionary compiled by O'Naughton. The Gaelic Journal and the principal modern published texts were also laid under contribution, as well as several lists of words received from various parts of the country. Not the least valuable part of the work is what I was able to remember from the days of my childhood, the rich vocabulary employed by my father and mother and the inhabitants of my native Sliabh Luachra, the snatches of song, of story, of proverb, the allusions and rhymes and exclamations which mingled with their conversation, as well as the precise and accurate use of phrase and idiom which distinguished them.

In spite of many defects, it is claimed for this work that it contains a larger number of words used in the living Irish language and in the more modern written compositions than any Irish Dictionary yet published; that it gives the various words fuller grammatical treatment; that it explains them more in detail and with greater precision and accuracy; that it gives a fuller account of local usage and pronunciation; that it treats more fully the more important words which form the basis of the main idioms that constitute the core of the language; that it gives a greater number of peculiarly poetical expressions; a fuller list of technical words and a more copious supply of examples drawn from the living speech of the people; that it has a more abundant list of references to modern standard works; that it deals more exhaustively and with fuller illustration with the various particles whose uses and functions are calculated to puzzle the student. It is claimed that the book gives a fairly accurate explanation in English of the main stream of words, idioms and forms that constitute the Modern Irish Language. Absolute completeness, either in the list of words or in the idioms, is not claimed, the time and space limits and other circumstances affecting the production of the work rendering such completeness impossible. In the insertion of compound words, which form an important factor in the language, space had to be economized.

It is obvious that in an unsettled language like Irish, which has not been cultivated to any extent since the use of print became general, many orthographical difficulties present themselves to the lexicographer. Complete uniformity of spelling is certainly a great desideratum. Indeed, it is impossible to conceive a flourishing literature in an age of printing like the present without a uniform orthography of some kind.

The science of grammar becomes a mockery where there is not some show of uniformity in the written forms of the words, and students of the language are disheartened by an unsettled and ever varying orthography. The circumstance that the language has been growing apace, as all languages grow, for the last couple of hundred years, without in many parts of the country the check of a written or printed literature, has resulted in its forming itself into two or three more or less clearly defined dialects which differ from one another in several points. The Irish spoken in the Extreme North of Ireland differs from that spoken in Munster, and that spoken in Connaught differs from both. The Irish of South Connaught approaches that of Munster, while that of North Connaught resembles that of Ulster. As regards the orthography employed, perhaps the only item that will seem somewhat radical is the uniform use of pc, pp, pt, in preference to pg, pb, po, respectively, but especially the use of pc for pg. On this point it may be observed that these sets of letter-combinations in general follow the same law, and that it is desirable to adopt a uniform system. In our books and dictionaries there is great confusion between the combinations pc and pg, and the time seemed to have come for writing uniformly one or the other. The question was, which should be selected. The selection of pc is only the natural lexicographical evolution. O'Naughton, the author of our earliest modern dictionary (finished 1727), writes pc for the most part, and devotes only a few pages to words beginning with pg. O'Brien (1767) states in his dictionary that pc and pg are absolutely identical, and that words spelled with pc will not be repeated under pg. O'Reilly made much the same observation, while Peter O'Connell (1826), whose work is most laborious, systematic, and comprehensive, writes pc in every case. Of the living authorities who were consulted on this question opinion was divided. I may mention that Dr. Standish Hayes O'Grady, Professor Strachan, and Dr. Joyce, approved of the exclusive use of pc, while Father Peter O'Leary, Mr. Bergin, Mr. Lloyd, and others, favoured pg. There can be no question, of course, that pg is far more common in modern manuscripts, and up to a recent date at least was more common in books. As regards the sound of the language used at the present day opinion also differs, some maintaining that the sound after p is g, and others that it is c. I think that the sound is in many cases pc, and in most other cases approaches nearer to pc than to pg. It seems to me that in words like pcéat, pcém, pcitling, where pc is followed by a slender vowel, the p is more affected than the c, the p becomes ph rather than c g. This ph sound of p, I believe, makes many think that a g-sound and not a c-sound is heard. In words like pcoit, to my ear at least, the sound is c. With regard to plural forms like páiptríe, which some now write páiprí, and ppátaíre, which they write ppátaí, only the longer form is given in these pages. That form is given as being the best established, though it is undoubtedly cumbrous and awkward to a degree. Both forms would have been given except that it seemed a needless waste of space to do so, and hence the exclusion of the shorter form is not to be regarded as prejudicing its claims. There can be no doubt that the tendency will always be in the direction of retrenching unsounded letters, and making the spelling square with the pronunciation. But the process must be gradual and, as it were, imperceptible. The diphthong éa has been used throughout instead of eu. I have followed Peter O'Connell in writing -iōeāct or -aiōeāct as the termination of abstract nouns, thus τῖομαῖοeāct, not τῖομυῖgeāct, though the verb is written τῖομυῖgim.

The diphthong eo and not eó is written throughout except in a few cases, and triphthongs are not in general accented. The diphthong ea is used in preference to io in unaccented syllables, thus Éiueann not Éiuionn. It has been found convenient for lexicographical order to observe the caol te caol law even in compounds, though there are some instances of departure from it. But it should be noted that the observance of this law is not intended to prejudice the pronunciation. Words like teit-rcéat, teit-éaann are largely but not universally pronounced as if written teat-rcéat and teat-éaann; thus we say œir-béatac and not œap-béatac, etc. Though many hints regarding the pronunciation of words are scattered through the book, it was found impossible to treat the pronunciation of each word in a systematic manner, without unduly enlarging the work.

The more important verbals are given a separate heading; sometimes they have uses distinct from those of the corresponding verbs. The verbs are given under their first singular indicative, as this arrangement is generally adopted in modern vocabularies. The unsettled state of orthography of the language often necessitated the repetition of the same word under different forms, and recourse was had to phonetic spelling when the origin or etymology of the word was uncertain.

An effort has been made, as far as the limits of the work permitted, to give examples of the principal idioms that involve the prepositions and other important words, but it is obvious that there are many idioms depending on the collocation of words which can be learned only by practice.

The treatment of local words, some of which are of very doubtful genuineness, was a matter of some anxiety. In some parts of the country certain English words have got an extraordinary twist, and in the mouths of Irish speakers pass for genuine Irish words. Moreover, words that are really Irish are sometimes very much corrupted locally, and the corrupted forms are of doubtful advantage to a lexicon. The local use of words, however, when properly ascertained, is of great assistance in determining their origin and meaning.

A word may be said about modern loan words. They are practically all taken immediately from the English, though many are loan words even in English. Some have been introduced with scarcely any change of pronunciation, but with a somewhat altered or extended meaning. Thus rcéiméir is from schemer, but is used in a peculiar way in Irish; rórt is from sort, but not identical in use with the English word. Many English words get an Irish terminal form as cruca from crook, and the termination -áil of the verbal noun is often added to English verbs—as teimneáil, tending, and the like. Of forms like these, some have got a footing in the language, while others, as the one just quoted, must be regarded as barbarous.

With regard to the general question of the insertion of loan words in a dictionary or their use in the spoken and written language, it is to be said that words that are established in the written language, being used by good authors, or words in everyday conversational use, should find a place in a dictionary, from whatever source they may be derived. The lexicographer may deplore the introduction of loan words, but he is bound to recognise their existence. Of course, words not well established or not widely used, have not the same claim to recognition. In the following pages I have in general given those loan words which have a footing in the spoken or written language, especially when they have acquired a new shade of meaning. In writing the language, words only recently borrowed and for which there are Irish equivalents, should be sparingly used. It is otherwise with words that have already a life of a couple of hundred years in the language. Every tongue borrows from other tongues, and it is a sign of health and vigour when a language can assimilate a crop of foreign words and reduce them to subjection by the rigorous application of its own syntax and of its own inflexional forms.

Want of space prevented my treating of the derivation of the bulk of the words in the dictionary, or of tracing their relationship to words in kindred tongues. It need scarcely be stated here that modern Irish is substantially the same language as Scotch Gaelic and as Manx, that it bears to the Welsh and Breton languages a kinship similar to that which exists between modern English and modern German, that it is a development of a language which was cognate to the earlier forms of the great family of languages spoken and written in modern Europe, that though its vocabulary has been considerably influenced by Latin within historic times, and by English within the last three centuries, it has preserved its own syntax and its own characteristic inflexional system practically untampered with even to this day. Its syntactical and inflexional systems have, indeed, been subject to a development similar to the development which takes place in the successive stages of every living and cultivated speech, but neither its syntax nor its inflexional system has been influenced to any great extent by neighbour tongues.

I owe a debt of gratitude to my friend, Mr. John J. O'Kelly, for the tireless energy which he devoted to the work from the outset. His extensive knowledge of the living language rendered his co-operation particularly valuable.

My friend, Mr. J. H. Lloyd, looked over all the MS. and read the proofs carefully, and the work owes much to his extensive knowledge of local forms and his critical acumen.

The following gentlemen, all of whom are well skilled in the living language, kindly looked over the proofs and noted local usages, etc.:—Messrs. John J. O'Kelly, P. O'Shea (Glengarriff), P. J. O'Shea ("Conán Maol"), J. C. Ward (Killybegs), J. Craig, J. Rogers (Barrow-in-Furness), T. Concannon, R. A. Foley, M. Breathnach. Messrs. J. J. Doyle and M. O'Malley looked over a portion of the proofs. Special mention should be made of Mr. Richard Foley's keen interest in the work from the beginning, and of the zeal with which he sought out and recorded local usages.

Among those who helped by supplying lists of words I may mention Rev. M. M'Grath, St. Mary's, Rathmines; Messrs. D. O'Callaghan (Aran), O'Donnell (Newport), O'Doherty (Cruit Island), R. A. Foley, John J. O'Kelly, J. C. Ward (Killybegs), Séamus O'Kelly, (Belfast), M. O'Brien (Ballyvourney), D. D. Murphy (Valentia), T. Hayes, P. O'Daly. Dr. J. P. Henry also took a great interest in the work all through its progress, and furnished useful lists of local words.

To Miss Eleanor Hull, Hon. Sec. of the Irish Texts Society, who took a keen personal interest in the work from the beginning, I am indebted for much sympathetic encouragement and many useful suggestions.

I wish to record my appreciation of the kindness I received from Mr. J. J. MacSweeney and assistants of the Royal Irish Academy, Mr. Lyster and assistants of the National Library of Ireland, Mr. De Burgh, Mr. Hall and assistants of Trinity College Library.

The labour of seeing the work through the press was considerably lightened by the intelligence and efficiency displayed by the staff of Messrs. Sealy, Bryers and Walker.

Although this work was laid on my shoulders quite unexpectedly, it is curious to recall that the production of an Irish Dictionary was one of the dreams of my boyhood. If the realization of that dream be not as splendid as the original conception, it is some compensation to reflect that the work, in spite of many imperfections, will be useful to thousands of students, and will help on the work of cultivating the rich and vigorous, but sadly neglected, language of the Gael.

After nouns, the genitive singular and nominative plural are given; after verbs (which are given in the 1st person singular, indicative mood), the verbal is given; after adjectives, the dative singular feminine, which is also in general the same as the comparative and superlative, is given; many adjectives, from the nature of the case, are not used in the comparative or superlative, but are nevertheless declined in the positive degree; after compound nouns, in most cases, the genitive and plural are not given when they are identical with those of the terminal simple nouns.

The general rule followed in setting down the inflectional termination after the words is to repeat the last letter of the invariable portion of the word, thus $\beta\rho\omicron\omicron\omicron\tau\acute{o}\iota\eta$, $-\acute{o}\eta\alpha$, $-\acute{o}\eta\iota\mu\acute{o}\epsilon$, signifies that the genitive case of $\beta\rho\omicron\omicron\omicron\tau\acute{o}\iota\eta$ is $\beta\rho\omicron\omicron\omicron\tau\acute{o}\eta\alpha$, and its nominative plural is $\beta\rho\omicron\omicron\omicron\tau\acute{o}\eta\iota\mu\acute{o}\epsilon$; where, however, the inflexional termination is purely an addition to the noun, the last letter is generally not repeated, thus $\mu\alpha\tau$, $-\alpha$, signifies that $\mu\alpha\tau\alpha$ is the genitive case of $\mu\alpha\tau$.

Δ (Διτμ), the first letter of the Modern Irish Alphabet.

Δ, interj., prefixed to voc. case, often slurred over in pronunciation; sometimes its place is supplied by an apostrophe, sometimes it is simply omitted.

Δ, weakened form of the prep. and verbal prefix oo (or oe), as Δ oíe oim=oo (oe) oíe oim, wanting to me; out Δ baile= out oo'n (or oo) baile, going home; Δ cloz=oo (oe) cloz or oon (oen) cloz, of the clock, o'clock; ríol Δ cúir=ríol oo cúir, to sow seed.

Δ, sometimes separated from verbs of which it is etymologically a part, as Δ tá=atá, Δ veirí=aveirí.

Δ, particle used before numerals when they do not qualify nouns, as Δ haon, one, the number one; Δ cúig, five.

Δ, prep. (a variety and development of prep. i, and used in preference to i in all modern MSS. At present i is more in favour in printed Irish, though Δ represents the sound more closely. In the earlier MSS. Δ is used instead of i before consonants followed by broad vowels), in, into. See i.

Δ, relative particle, aspirating, arising from the weakening of verbal prefixes, and only recently introduced into literature, as 'nuair Δ táinig Δ.=nuair táinig Δ., when Δ. came. The rel. prn. in nom. or acc. case does not require any equivalent in Irish, but this particle is often used where the rel. would occur.

Δ, rel. prn., eclipses, but becomes Δr before past tenses, aspirating in active, and causing no change in consonants but prefixing h to vowels in passive voice. (1) All who, all which, all whom, all that; (2) after prep., whom, which.

Δ, poss. a. (1) her, its (f.) prefixes h- to vowels; (2) his, its (m.), aspirates; (3) their, eclipses, prefixes n- to vowel.

Δον (in comp. Δον-, Δον-), one, a single one, only, the only (often with Δμάιν); the one, the same, any; at all, with neg. no, none, not any: Δον ιρ πίε, Δον Δι πίεθρ, twenty-one; Δον ουίνε, Δον νεαθ, any one, anybody; with neg., no one, nobody; Δον είτε, another; Δον λά Δμάιν, one day, once upon a time; Δον τε, together with; Δον νίθ, anything; with neg., nothing; Δον υαίρ, Δον υαίρ Δμάιν, once, once upon a time; Δι Δον, together; μαρ Δον, along with, together with; ζαθ Δον, every one. Δον is sometimes accented, and forms one word with the following nouns, as: θίωμαρ Δι Δον-ρκοίλ, we both attended the same school; κομ-μας Δον-φίρ, single combat; but it is not accented in phrases like ní haon maíteap ouit beít Δζ cainnt, there is no use in your talk; ní'l Δζam aét Δον ρείλλ-ινζ Δμάιν, I have but a single shilling, and should then be regarded as a separate word. The accentuation of Δον takes place when emphasis is to be laid on the singleness, unity, or identity of the idea conveyed by the following word; thus, ní'l Δον θρίζ τερ Δν θροκατ ραίμ, that word has no meaning; but Δον-θρίζ ιρ εαθ Δτά τερ Δν θά ροκατ, both words have one and the same meaning. In the first of these two sentences Δον is not emphasised, and should not form one word with θρίζ. If the word Δμάιν follow in the sentence it sometimes takes the emphasis off Δον. Δον was in the 16th century, and is in modern times, often written éan, and in compounds Δον becomes éín. An objection to these forms is this, that frequently in poetry Δον has to be pronounced Δον (with broad n), which is a recognised sound of Δο in Con. and U.; but the spelling éan does not lend itself to that sound.

ατάῖμ (more generally τάῖμ). See parad.; substantive verb, I am, I live, I stay, am found, exist in a particular condition, there is, there exists. This verb is not used as a simple copula like is in the phrase John is a man, a king, etc., we cannot say τὰ Σεαζάν ρεαρ, τὰ Σεαζάν ῖι, we must say τὰ Σεαζάν ιη-α ρεαρ, τὰ Σεαζάν ιη-α ῖιζ. The state or condition which the verb denotes is variously expressed, 1st by adjct. or past part., or adverb, as $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\rho\alpha\iota\omicron\upsilon\theta\eta\iota$, he is rich; $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\beta\eta\epsilon\omicron\iota\omicron\tau\epsilon$, he is sick; $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\kappa\eta\epsilon\alpha\delta\tau\alpha$, he is robbed; $\tau\acute{\alpha}\iota\mu$ $\gamma\omicron$ $\mu\alpha\iota\tau$, I am well; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\gamma\omicron$ $\hbar\alpha\lambda\alpha\mu\eta$, it is splendid, he is well (i.e., in the best of health); 2nd, by the use of prepositional clauses formed chiefly with the preps. 1 (α), $\alpha\pi$, $\iota\alpha\pi$ ($\alpha\pi$), $\alpha\gamma$, $\rho\acute{\alpha}$, $\tau\eta\epsilon$, etc. With 1 it expresses the precise state or condition in which the subject is— $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ 'n-a $\kappa\omicron\upsilon\tau\alpha\omicron$, he is asleep; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ 'n-a $\rho\upsilon\omicron\tau\omicron$, he is sitting up; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ ' $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ 1 n-a $\rho\epsilon\alpha\pi$, he is a man, has grown to be a man, he is not a mere boy; but $\iota\pi$ $\rho\epsilon\alpha\pi$ $\acute{\epsilon}$, he is a man essentially, abstracting from all changes and developments; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ 'n-a $\rho\epsilon\alpha\pi$, seems to imply progress and development or transformation, the result of which it expresses; with $\alpha\pi$, in phrases like $\beta\epsilon\iota\tau$ $\alpha\pi$ $\rho\omicron\gamma\eta\alpha\mu$, to be well; $\beta\epsilon\iota\tau$ $\alpha\pi$ $\rho\upsilon\omega\delta\alpha\omicron$, to be in a boiling state; $\beta\epsilon\iota\tau$ $\alpha\pi$ $\mu\epsilon\iota\tau\epsilon$, to be drunk; with $\iota\alpha\pi$ ($\alpha\pi$), $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}\mu$ $\alpha\pi$ n-a m' $\kappa\omicron\iota\mu\mu\epsilon\alpha\gamma$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\iota\alpha\tau\alpha\iota\gamma$, I am put in comparison with mud (Kea).; $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}\mu$ $\alpha\pi$ n-a m' $\kappa\upsilon\pi$ 1 $\nu\epsilon\eta\mu\eta\iota$, I am brought to nought (Kne).; with $\alpha\gamma$ it denotes the possessing or having a thing; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\alpha\eta\gamma\epsilon\alpha\omicron$ $\alpha\gamma\alpha\mu$, I have money; $\beta\iota\omicron\upsilon$ $\nu\epsilon\omicron\kappa$ $\alpha\gamma\alpha\tau$, have a drink; with verbal nouns after $\alpha\gamma$ it expresses an action just going on; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\alpha\gamma$ $\kappa\upsilon\pi$ $\rho\epsilon\alpha\kappa$, it is freezing; $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\alpha}$ $\alpha\gamma$ $\gamma\omicron\tau$, she is crying; with $\rho\acute{\alpha}$, $\tau\eta\epsilon$, etc.: $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\alpha\eta$ $\acute{\alpha}\iota\tau$ $\rho\acute{\alpha}$ $\upsilon\iota\tau\epsilon$, the place is covered with water; $\alpha\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\alpha\eta$ $\kappa\omicron\iota\iota\iota$ $\tau\eta\epsilon$ $\kappa\epsilon\iota\mu\iota\omicron$, the wood is on fire; with $\alpha\pi$, a variety of superlative copula-phrase (?), $\tau\acute{\alpha}$ $\rho\acute{\epsilon}$ $\alpha\pi$ $\alpha\eta$ $\beta\eta\iota\epsilon$ $\iota\pi$ $\rho\epsilon\alpha\pi$ 1 n- $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\eta\mu\eta\eta$, he is the best poet in Ireland.

She departed, taking with her the flax and wool, and the other kept repeating the name σίτλε συσίτλε, which she gave her. After some days she quite forgot the name, and remained for weeks in great distress, as she believed she had now lost her yarn for ever. One day as she wandered by some lonely rath she heard the sound as of a woman spinning. As she spun she sang—

"Ὁά mbeat̃ σίρ αῖ an mnaoi

"Ὁέ oo beata ro' pláinte, n (num, the ash tree), the eleventh letter of the Modern Irish Alphabet.

n, a remnant of case ending projected to the word following, producing what is called eclipsis of the succeeding initial consonant. It remains n-before vowels, o and ɣ; becomes m before b, and affects the consonants c, p, f, making them sound like o, ɣ, b, which latter are respectively written before them thus oc, ɣc, bp, ɣp. It is found after the numerals reac, oet, naoi, roic; after the pronouns, ar, our; ɣar, your; a, their; after prep. i (a); after relative combined with prep.; after the article when a noun is governed by a prep., though often aspiration of the initial consonant supplies its place (preps. ro and re do not project n); after preps. ending in a vowel before poss. pr., le n-a láim, ó n-a ceann; reac n-aon, ɣac noune, etc., are found in modern MSS.

tives, not, do not; ná buaib, do not strike; before vowels h is inserted, as ná hiaíh, do not ask; used imperatively even in 1st sing.: ná cluinim, let me not hear; used also before some optatives; e.g. ná maíao, may I not be; oeaib go oeo ná maíah, may you never be wretchedly poor; ná maib an fáo rin oe luígeacán bliatóna oírt; ná maíao gan teacrt, etc., etc. (with other verbs náh is used).

ná used as an enumerative and descriptive particle, namely, íh ao ná fíh a b'í ann ná Comáí, Seaíán, 7c. the men who were there were Thomas, John, etc.

chuainn, it is true that trees afford them no shelter; before pf. tense it combines with ho becoming nacah, which see; after negatives, expressed or implied, ná go is used in M. for nac; the eclipsis caused by nac is quite modern; beas nac, beasnac, little but, almost, nearly.

nac (an interrog. part. used in a neg. form), what? how? is . . not? nac fhuic acá an lá, how wet the day is! nac oeah an buac-aill é, what a nice boy he is (ironically); nac é reo Taoí? is this not Tadhg?

nacah (aspirates), that . . not, etc. (see nac), is the form used before past tense, let not, that may not; when ba, ab of the assertive v. are omitted, nacah = was it not, etc.; in colloquial usage nacah is now confined to U., and even there náh is as common; in M. and Con., náh only is used; often in U. nacah = M. ná íh in negative sentences.

PARADIGMS OF THE IRREGULAR VERBS

GENERAL REMARKS.

THE dependent form of the verb is that used in the imperative mood and after ní, not; an, interrog. part.; nac, interrog. neg. part.; so, that; cá, where; muna, unless; oá, if, and the relative governed by a preposition. In these verbs in some tenses the independent or absolute form is distinct from the dependent form. Thus, aiveim, I say, but ní abiam, I do not say; béam, I will give, but ní éibéam, I will not give; cá aigeas agam, I have money, but an épuil aigeas agat? have you money? The tendency of the modern development of the language is to break down the distinction between the two sets of forms and use one form in all cases. Indeed the perfection with which this distinction is observed may furnish a rough test of the purity and strength of the vernacular idiom in any district. The generation which has just passed away observed this distinction more scrupulously than the present. Thus, I remember old people say béam or béamó mé rcillng uirt, I will give you a shilling, now one hears generally cabam rcillng uirt. In West Kerry good speakers now say níor éuáó, while in East Kerry the proper form ní éeááó (éeááó) is retained. The verb aiveim has a strong tendency to part with its dependent forms, especially in the future and conditional. One hears ní abiam (present), but also commonly ní éabam (future). oo-beim still holds its own in the present (oo not being pronounced), especially in more solemn statements as (oo)-beim mo éanna óuit, I solemnly assure you; but eam and eam are also used. A perfect form oo-bei (old preterite, oo-beit, 3rd singular) is heard in Kerry.

I have ventured to supply a 1st sing. imperat. which is peculiar in its use. In using this form the speaker commands not himself but another—he commands or entreats that a certain act be performed (the verb for which is not expressed), which will result in a certain consequence to himself, this consequence being expressed by this 1st singular form. It is used positively or negatively, and is distinct from the subj. or optat., thus: α βάν-ένειρ πέιν, παζάιμ πάτ αν έάετ', γc. (E. R.). παζάιμ here is equivalent to ιnnip oam (or ταβαίμ oam). νά παζάιμ ανηρο α έυιλλεαθ έύ, which is equivalent to saying ιmτιγζ άρ πο ιοτρπεο νά παζαο αν α έυιλλεαθ έύ, hence the speaker does not command or entreat himself, but indirectly he commands or entreats another. νά παζάιμ ποαλ ειλε άρατ is equivalent to έίρη or ειυινιγζ. Cf. similar uses of ειυινιμ, πεικιμ, γc. This form is used idiomatically in conditional sentences, thus: άρ υαίρλιβ έονναέτ ιρ βίμ ιμ' έεανηποίτ, let me be commander over the nobles of Connaught, that is, if I were commander, etc. This 1st sing. imper. is identical in form with the 1st sing. indic. (dependent), and this use of it is not found in Old or Middle Irish.

The subjunctive (optative) is still widely used in the spoken language. ταβαίμ oam vo lám nó ζο παθμαο (=mbeimío) αζ τημλι, give me your hand so that we may go on (start on our journey) (U.); "τάιμ βρεοιότε"; "μάιρε ζο παθαίμ"; "I am sick"; "indeed, may you be so"; "ζο βρειοιό vo έλανν οεαίβ τά," "may your children see you poor"; "ζεοθαίμ ρααέτ," "μάιρε ζο βραζαο," "you will catch cold," "indeed I wish I may" (a strong expression of improbability); ταβαίμ oam άτριάς ζο βραζαο οεοδ, give me a vessel that I may get a drink (subj. use). The past subj. is identical in form with the imperf. indic.

Only a few verbs such as ατάιμ, ειυινιμ, have preserved the synthetic form of the 2nd pl. pres. indicative in the sp. l.

The participle of necessity is still extensively used in M. and not quite extinct elsewhere: ní μαοιότε ριν οητ, you are not to be envied on that account; ní'λ ριν μαοιότε οητ in Don. = you have fully earned it, you deserved well of it. Connur ταςι? μήιρε, ní ζεαρίαντα όαμ. How are you? Well I have no reason to complain; ιρ οέαντα ζυιόε, oran-dum est, we must pray, cf. αβαίτα (lit. to be said = witty, of a reply) (Con.). ράιγτε, in phr. μά'ρ ράιγτε oam, if it is the case that I am to be left (U.).

There appear to be very few survivals of the form in U.; in Don. the ion- p. a. is now very commonly employed instead, and, as in the case of the Don. use of μαοιότε, noted above, it is constructed with τά and not with ιρ, e.g., τά πέ ινωέαντα αζατ=ιρ ινωέαντα όυιτ έ, ní'λ πέ ιον-μαοιότε οητ=ní hionmáoióte οητ έ, having the same sense as the phrase with μαοιότε; "άέτ ανοιρ ό φίλιμ ζο βρuiλ τά ιονταοότα" (Don. song); cf. Don. construction τά πέ υοιλιγζ 'ράζαίλ=ιρ οεααίμ έ υ'ράζαίλ,

P. of nec. is sometimes distd. from past part. by being slender, ειυιπέτε, part. of nec.; ειυιτά, past p.; ράιγτε, p. nec.; ράζτα, p. p. But in M. τόζτα = p. nec. and p. p., etc.

The earlier form 3rd sing., conditional, was bíotó; it is often now written beotó, and somet. pron. beac, but the spelling beíðeao seems most in accordance with the accepted pronunciation. It is also spelled béao. For quasi-passive forms see Addendum, p. 800.

DICTIONARY FUND.

The Council of the Irish Texts Society, in recording the names of those friends of the Society who have come forward to aid the work of publication by donations or by contributing to the Guarantee Fund, wish to take this opportunity of acknowledging the cordial help and encouragement they have received from many friends, throughout the whole course of the undertaking. The interest shewn by Irish Students and by Irish men and women in all parts of the world, in the production of this Dictionary, has been a source of constant encouragement to all in any way engaged in pushing forward the work.

In raising the necessary funds the Council have also met with much sympathy. They wish to record their gratitude, in a special manner, to three friends who came forward at a critical moment and voluntarily offered loans of a considerable amount. These are, the Hon. Albinia Brodrick, who gave a loan of £200 ; Mr. John P. Boland, M.P., and Mr. John Hill Twigg, who each contributed a loan of £100. They are also specially indebted to the Most Rev. Dr. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin, for constant proofs of interest and for the offer of £20, as a personal contribution to the work, if a sum of £400 could be raised in similar amounts. This offer, though it has not realized the total amount contemplated by His Grace, has produced the considerable sum of over £177 paid up, and £20 promised. The fact that several dioceses made efforts to contribute the required amount is interesting, and proves an extending concern for the advancement of Irish studies.

The names of the contributors to the Loan Guarantee Fund are as follows :—

The Irish Texts Society was established in 1898 for the purpose of publishing texts in the Irish language, accompanied by such introductions, English translations, glossaries and notes, as might be deemed desirable.

The Annual Subscription has been fixed at 7s. 6d. (American subscribers, two dollars), payable on January 1st of each year, on payment of which Members will be entitled to receive the Annual Volume of the Society, and any additional volumes which they may issue from time to time.

Members joining the Society for the first time can still receive the Volumes published in 1899 and 1901, at the original Subscription of 7s. 6d. for each year, but these volumes will be shortly out of print.

Vol. 3 (1900) is now out of print.

The Committee make a strong appeal to all interested in the preservation and publication of Irish Manuscripts to join the Society and to contribute to its funds, and especially to the Editorial Fund, which has been established for the remuneration of Editors for their arduous work.

All communications should be addressed to the Hon. Secretary, MISS ELEANOR HULL, 20 Hanover square, London, W.
